

All youth should feel hopeful about their future, but Asian and LGBTQIA+ youth are least likely to feel hopeful all the time

Survey Question: I feel hopeful when I think about my future

Data Source: Catalyst California calculations of Bold Vision Youth Thriving Survey, 2024. Note: AIAN= American Indian & Alaska Native, alone or in combination; BIPOC= Black, Indigenous, People of Color; LGBTQIA+= Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer, Intersex, Asexual, & Gender Nonconforming; NHPI= Native Hawaiian & Pacific Islander, alone or in combination; SWANA= Southwest Asian & North African, alone or in combination; Systems Impacted= Youth who at any point in foster care, juvenile hall, probation camp, jail, prison, group home/residential program, or lived with relatives responsible for them legally; Immigrant= Youth in the U.S. under Temporary Protected, Asylum, Refugee, DACA, or Non-Citizenship Status; Unhoused= Youth who in the past year lived in a shelter/emergency housing, transitional housing, motel/hotel, a garage/car/trailer, park/other public space, or temporarily in the home of friends or family; *CV(coefficient of variance) is greater than 40%. Groups with less than 5 responses are omitted.